

PARK ROW TRAIN-SHED'S REMOVAL IS PLANNED

Kracke Reports Unsightly Brooklyn Bridge Structure's Outing Would Cost Million.

The Department of Bridges has presented to Mayor Mitchell and the Public Service Commission a plan for the removal of the unsightly train shed and terminal which projects from Brooklyn Bridge across Park Row.

The cost of removing the present shed, building a concrete terminal back on the bridge structure and of providing for other contemplated improvements will approximate $1,000,000.

It is the plan of the present Bridge Commissioner to place the new structure 600 feet further back toward the bridge proper.
